Technical Evaluation:

Upon comprehensive evaluation for SJDIRB consideration, the above mentioned research paper is found to meet the technical standards required for research involving human subjects. The technical assessment is based on the following criteria:

1. Research Design and Methodology: The research design is robust, and the chosen methodology is appropriate for addressing the research questions or objectives.
2. Literature Review: The literature review demonstrates a comprehensive understanding of relevant existing research, providing a solid foundation for the study.
3. Data Collection and Analysis: The data collection process is well-described and executed, and the analysis is conducted with statistical rigor, ensuring the validity and reliability of the results.

Based on the technical evaluation for SJDIRB review, we confidently recommend the research paper, affirming its adherence to technical standards in research involving human subjects.
